Whites Depart, Negroes Alone, Families Upset

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 18 — Dozens from their white thors, loneliness for their irons, and reprisals from community are consequences of four Negro families' venturing into previously all-white areas here.

"There is no victory without it," said the white-haired mother of one of the four year-old girls who are sitting alone in two school buildings here each day.

THE PARENTS, gathered at a press conference arranged by National Association for the Incancement of Colored People, said their children do not what is going on.

The girls are frightened by angry boos of the heckling dards around the schools, but don't seem to know the center of controversy, parents said.

IV LITTLE girl came home early and said she, "Mama, white children is gone," retorted one mother. Another said her daughter could understand why the teacher seemed to notice the white less than the black. "They were very, very nice to little girl," said another. "They played with her and they offered her a candy." The families their daughters, like their sons and were enjoying the

BY THIS TIME both Guatemala and Nicaragua had more or less crushed their revolutionaries. The administration apparently does not expect a Cuban invasion of either country, but it wasn't so sure of this when the Navy units were first dispatched.

THE STATE Department at first hoped the Navy could simply begin quiet reconnaissance patrols without any announcement of ship movements. But Guatemala made public its request for U.S. assistance.

The decision to announce the plan and use it as a diplomatic weapon was made at the White House in August. Yesterday with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates Jr. present.

Students who plan on staying in Provo for the holidays and want to eat Thanksgiving dinner with a Provo family should begin Friday in Eyring Science Center.

On-campus Thanksgiving dinners will be served at Cannon Center cafeteria only. The meal will cost $1.25.

CANNON CENTER will also be open Saturday and Sunday at regular times and prices during the Thanksgiving recess. The J. S. Cafeteria will serve lunch only on Friday, and the snack bar will be open that day only.

Activities have been scheduled on campus over the holiday for those students who are staying in Provo.

A FROSH vs. varsity basketball game in Smith Fieldhouse will begin at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 25. Activity cards will admit students and $1 tickets can be purchased by the public.

Saturday night the Thanksgiving dance, Gobble Hop, will begin at 8:30 in the fieldhouse. The price is 50 cents. Dance wear and casual dress is the style.

THERE WILL be no charge for the dance, but donations are encouraged for the Associated Men Students Christmas benefit drive.

The movie "Calamity Jane" will be shown as a regular campus film.

Block Classes Start Monday

Block plan classes to be held the second half of fall semester will begin Monday, it was announced today by Helen Tanner of the Admissions and Records office.

The block plan means that certain classes have been scheduled for either the first or second halves of the semester to facilitate departmental programs. Students usually compensate for the shorter learning period by concentrating attendance and study.

Second block plan student teachers held an orientation meeting Wednesday about student teaching which will begin also Monday, according to Ray T. Wilcox, chairman of student teaching.

Herter Orders Workers to Refrain, Not to Give Information to New Staff

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 — U.S. Christian A. Herter, Secretary of State, has ordered State Department officials to refrain from establishing individual contacts with the incoming administration of President-elect Kennedy.

Herter has instructed officials to channel any information for the new administration through the office of Assistant Secretary of State for Congressional Relations, William B. Macomber Jr., until formal liaison arrangements have been set up.

STATE Department officials also have been told to report to the secretary on any approaches to him for information by members of Kennedy's staff or persons representing themselves to be such.

Herter's order, according to his aides, is designed to eliminate "confusion" resulting from informal contacts and "regularize" the flow of information to the new administration.

THEY acknowledged, however, that it also would have the effect of stopping frustrated career officials from trying to peddle pet theories to the new administration or seek the inside track for better jobs when Kennedy assumes office.

Herter was reportedly concerned by the fact that a number of his aides have been talking with Democratic Congressmen and others concerning possible new policies.

THE SECRETARY has gone to considerable trouble to prepare for the orderly transition of the department to his successor. He wants Kennedy soon will designate the next secretary so that work of briefing him on current policies and conditions can proceed.

Each geographical and operating division of the State Department has prepared or is putting the finishing touches on a big place briefing book detailing its methods of operation, the principal problems in its sphere and present policies being pursued.

IN ADDITION, administrative experts have prepared for the secretary designate a master briefing book explaining just how the Department and its far-flung foreign service operates in the 80 countries with which the United States maintains diplomatic relations.

Officials said that Kennedy's transition expert, Clark Clifford, and Presidential assistant Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, who are working out arrangements for the transfer of authority, have not set up any machinery for the State Department.

Actor Will Rogers, Jr. To Speak at Assembly

Will Rogers Jr., well-known radio and television personality and motion picture star, will be guest speaker at the Brigham Young University forum assembly Monday at 10 a.m. in the Smith Fieldhouse.

The son of the famous comed-dian, Mr. Rogers has included in his career "The Story of Will Rogers" and more than a year's stint as conductor of the TV "Good Morning Show."

HIS ELECTION to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1942 was interrupted when he was called into military service.

Mr. Rogers was allowed to remain in Congress but later resigned and enlisted in the Army where he fought in most of the major battles of World War II. He won the Purple Heart.

Born in New York City while his father was appearing in the Ziegfeld Follies, he has lived on Long Island, in Oklahoma and Arkansas. The family finally moved to Beverly Hills where he attended school. After graduation from Leland Stanford University he edited and published "The Beverly Hills Citizen" for 18 years.

MARRIED IN 1939 to a former classmate at Leland Stanford, he and his wife, who has participated actively in her husband's journalistic and political careers) have adopted three Navajo Indian children, Randy, Cleo and Cott.

Mr. Rogers has been described as a man "who, just by being himself, is more like his old man" than anyone else living."

Fund Drive Workers Seek Class Donations

Student workers are increasing their efforts as they move into the final day of class Fund Drive week.

Solicitors have been contacting students in the freshman, sophomore and junior classes on and off-campus all week. Seniors sold class cards Monday and Tuesday in booths in several campus buildings. This was the only class fund contribution requested by the senior class.

JUNIOR STUDENTS who were not contacted, or not at home when contacted by fund drive workers, are urged to contribute at the booth in Smith Family Living Center.

According to Al Call, senior finance manager, not enough senior class cards were sold to make operation of the booths worthwhile, and for that reason they were discontinued. He said, however, that senior class cards will be sold at some later time during the year.

IN URGING JUNIORS to contribute to the drive, chairman Sandy Uleny explained that the class of '62 will present a well-balanced selection of books to the new library. This project was chosen last year, and about $2200 has been collected thus far.

A large gold globe, to be placed in the foyer of the new library, is the recently announced project of the sophomore class, according to Ralph Hardy, fund drive chairman.

Senior project will be chosen later in the year at a meeting of all seniors. The freshman class is collecting money under chairman Rodney Tolman toward an, as yet, unchosen project.

QUESTION: What do you think about the shortened Christmas holidays this year?

CARROLL JACOBS, senior: "Some of us depend on Christmas holidays for work to finance our next semester. It's pretty short time now to do anything. For those who have a great distance to travel, they'll barely get home during the day. I don't think it would hurt to give us a day at the beginning of the week."

BARBARA TAYLOR, junior: "Christmas is a holiday. Those far away will be hindered in enjoying the closeness of their family and friends. Personally it's the reason for me to catch up on my studies. Now I'll have less time that."

RONNIE HALL, junior: "I think we ought to move more time because of the time we have to take travel home."

"The kids aren't going to stay here for Christmas that is what the administration thinks. They'll just be more to get home. Instead of fewer accident, we'll move."

BOB VALENTINE, freshman: "I think it's good in the fact it will keep lots of kids from making the long trips. On the other hand, the majority will attempt to make the trip. It will be shorter and as a result, I think the vacation will be much more generous than before. I live in Provo so I'm not really directly involved."

KAREN CALLAWAY, freshman: "It is going to make kids more determined to go home. Can you imagine a year without seeing your parents? I think it's ridiculous with all the driving action that's dangerous."

JOAN LYMAN, freshman: "The kids will make it longer cutting school. Besides it's only the first time you get to go home and see your parents all year like to spend some time with them. I planned on doing some Christmas shopping at home but I guess I'll be able to now."

PAT HAFEN, freshman: "I know I'd hate to stay over the holidays. Some of the kids will just go home and I don't agree with that. People want to spend some time with their families and even though they only have a week, I risk it. I think it will just risk it more accidents."

ROBERT HUNTER, sophomore: "I live far away, so I don't go home, no matter what. Even if I had to cut school, it is the most important time of the year and it's unfair to courage students from home."

JOAN ROBINSON, freshman: "I wanted to get some Christmas shopping done but now because I get home all the time, we'll miss the days just before Christmas which are the most fun. They should cut off the back end instead of front."

MARYLYN GARDNER, freshman: "I'm from New York. I hate the idea of staying through Christmas. This is the time we work so wholeheartedly for the meaning of the word Christmas: holiday festivities like family and friends and seeing of the decoration."

Do we have to water down our cheer by cheering continuously after, before and many times during the game? I have seen gripes about poor spirit on campus, but I've never seen better spirit from students (bless 'em) than on either of the previous campuses I've been on, and numerous other college ball games I've attended.

Do we have to be sang to? Do we have to stand and sing California whether we feel like standing or not, or whether we can sing or not, and whether we come from California? I'm from Utah.

"Let's give the spectator a break, let him think and see the ball game too. I'm tired of going to a rehearsal at the ball field and singing Major 90% chords. I get this in A Cappella choir, I want to see a ball game." —Roger Clark

OUR LAST CHANCE

This Saturday will be the last chance for BYU students to see their varsity football team perform, and their last chance to show support for them.

Only one more game remains to be played—with the University of Hawaii in Honolulu.

A lot has been said on these pages—mostly in letters to the editor, about school spirit. We think the students are right; it is time to think seriously about our football policies.

The Universe is convinced, however, that the athletic department is well aware of its problems, and that they are doing all that can be done presently to build BYU football.

Be that as it may, there is little excuse for a student body which will not support its team.

It has been a long, hard season for the players. Not all has gone as well as everyone wanted it to—but then life seldom does.

We think the football team is entitled to a full stadium Saturday—stadium full of enthusiastic students. We hope you'll be there.

Ad Infinitum

... a column by Sue Bailey

Sophomores (an old hands), you are familiar with this story, which occurred Tuesday:

The clock says 8:20 a.m. leaving you 30 more minutes to decide why you can't go to class today.

Then through your bedroom door darts a once sleepy-eyed freshman roommate. She exclaims, "There is snow on the ground!" You look at the comedy before you—a head full of curves, a shorty-night-gown, who is out of place if there is really snow on the ground, bare feet (monstrous toes) and two big eyes.

A snort escapes you, as you realize this silly girl has given you a valid excuse for staying in bed the rest of the day.

Out yonder where the green grass grows, last Sunday night, was a fair maiden, Jean Nadolski, adorned in short blouse, coat and ski boots, who was receiving her first lesson on skin by her patient roommate, Kay Clements.

I wonder about Miss Nadolski and roommate as it was the night of Nov. 10 that I wondered away from my Herritage Halls apartment, down to the basement to heed wild calls coming from a storage cage, cell no. 214. Across from Jean's cell in no. 215 was a tall, blonde girl, Janet McIlhenny, who sat upon a suit case, while she was trying to rock back and forth, while knitting a sweater. She smiled contentedly at me. I smiled back.

At her feet was a pillow and bed spread, which her roommates had brought her to make her night more endurable. They were good girls, but I wonder if they had time for night. Inquiring of the roommates about the two mad women who were locked in the cages, they explained the two had committed the unpardonable sin of going to bed early.

Moral: Always keep one eye open on roommates.

Thanksgiving vacation is right around the corner. (Real.) I wonder why they call it vacation. The students will drive home to see mom and dad. (Dad! Truthfully, the faithful sweetheart shall no longer pine.) You will be there!

Once there and re-introduced to family, an apron will be whisked aroun the waist—boy to take out garbage, girl to help dress turkey. This season is hardly a time for the stomach to relax. It will receive more than over-time pay for the over-time work it does.

But, back to school with smiling faces and rosy cheeks (left over expressions of good-bye).

Presley and Values

The undersigned students feel that the following article which appeared in the Christian Century should be brought to the attention of the BYU students.

"Elvis Presley, fresh out of army khaki, may not have returned from overseas as a conquering hero, but his claim to sainthood among Americans as idol still intact. He recently received no less than $125,000 for one night's appearance on a network TV program.

He did two wiggles and sang two songs, and for this received more than the yearly salary of the President of the United States and three times the yearly salary of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. An identical sum of $125,000 was paid to a class of 23 school teachers, 400 minutes or 63 farm hands in many of our states.

It would provide a year's training for 30 or more nurses, who will give 125 Army young people their college would stock ten mission hospitals with dental tools and drugs, would feed 3,000 refugee children for a whole year.

The money paid Presley was worse than wasted. The evil effect which such performances leave in the minds of viewers are eventually paid for by every American citizen. They reveal the depth of decadence into which our scale of values has total of 3,956 cars can be permanent, temporary and projected parking.

THE MAP shows that there are 2,794 permanent parking places and 1,162 temporary places. The latter are designated as temporary because they will be changed in the present extensive building program.

The BYU Security Office reports there are 3,805 automobiles registered with that office. This includes both faculty and student cars. If all of them parked at once, there would be only 151 parking places left.

ON THE EDGE of the campus are some of the larger parking areas. The blacktopped area across the street from the fieldhouse parks 860 cars. The Helaman Halls lots park 549 cars and the Heritage Halls lots park 411 cars.

The biggest centrally-located parking area, between the new Knight Bldg. and the Smith Family Living Center, parks 500 cars. Just north of this is a temporary area for 376 cars.

Movie Paragon Clark Gable Dies at Age 59

HOLLYWOOD Nov. 17 (UPI)—Clark Gable, the "King of Hollywood," died at 59 yesterday. He had died last night in Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital, as his wife rushed to his side. He was 59.

His grief-stricken wife, Kay, expecting their first child early next year, was alerted in her room across the hall next to Gable's where she was sleeping when the fatal seizure came.

She dashed to his side, but he did not speak and minutes later he was officially pronounced dead despite attempts to revive him.

Only minutes earlier he had been sitting up in bed, cleanly shaven and chatting with a nurse. He had dinner last night with his wife in his room.

"He suffered no pain," said Caldwell. "He died instantly."

The 5-foot-10, 180-pound man with the big arm and big ears was one of the greatest movie idols the world has ever known from the time he became a star in the early 1930s.

The boom of cannons off the Battery in Charleston, S.C., started next January 9th—the same date as a century ago—will mark the first in a series of Centennial observances of the five-year Civil War in which almost as many Americans lives were lost than in all the wars this nation has fought before or since, combined.

TO DATE, ALMOST 100 different ceremonies, observances and re-enactments are planned at historic sites in the East and South. They will range in scope from picnics requiring only a handful of participants to those which will utilize thousands in extensively-planned pageants.

A special message by President Eisenhower proclaiming the start of the Centennial on January 9th will initiate a five-year period of activity that will note of the dramatic battles at which great sacrifices were made by Americans for their ideals.

THE PRESIDENT has suggested that the day be set aside for prayer and acknowledgment of these sacrifices, with the hope that all Americans will review the bitter lessons that can be learned from this country's most destructive conflict.

The re-enactment in Charleston will officially recognize the firing of the first shot of the war, known as the "Star of the West" as the first shots to be fired in anger between the South and the North. The cannon balls sent whizzing over the bay a century ago were fired by corps of cadets from The Citadel, the military college in Charleston.

THE "STAR OF THE WEST" sent by President Lincoln to provide the besieged Federal forces at Fort Sumter remained in the harbor "ship-chained" until it reached a point about three-quarters of a mile from the city's battery wall.

The first cannon ball was a warning to the "Star of the West" and was aimed across her bow.

Now a hundred years later, enthusiasm for noting the anniversary of the conflict has appeared in the 34 states which actually participated in the war. In an interview, the Washington, D.C., physician and volunteer head of Project Hope talked about the problems these gals-like women face, working in a ship anchored just a few miles from a steaming jungle.

"Those nurses work all day in the hospital set up on the ship, showing Indonesian nurses how to run a ward and how to manage bed sores. Then they take classes of Indonesians at night, training the women in simple nursing procedures," Dr. Walsh said.

lifestyle possessing the ability to jump for the duration of the athletic event, they must be creative in their routines, their own flags every game, design their own uniforms first of the year and have every day to spend on refining old routines and learning ones.

They must maintain the "I name" of BYU at such games, assemblies, parades and pep rallies since they are only college flagtwirlers in the intercollegiate west.

She screamed and jumped out of the tub. Engineers at the station said a busily scrubbing away in the fresh wave caused the metal solitude of her bathroom. Suds faucet to pick up the music.

Air Lines Mark Fashion Trends

by Gay Penley

UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—There's a fashion trend in the air. And if it pursues its course, the world's airlines soon will begin to look like a masked ball.

Already, Hawaiian mu-mu's are accepted dress for stewards on Northwest Orient Airlines. In Miami, Pan American stewardesses in cowboy costumes check off passenger lists for Trans-Texas Flying stars in green and gold silk whisper softly in the aisle of Air India flights. Hostesses on BOAC flights in the Near East wear traditional Chinese robes, Chinese cheongsam, the high-necked sheath with side slits at the skirt. And on several other carriers serving the Orient, the classic kimono and 'obi of the old Nippon are the official uniforms donned on many flights.

IF THE TREND keeps going, the Dutch girls soon will be in wooden shoes, stewardesses on French lines will be in the abbreviated skirts of the Middle Ages, and the Swiss stewardesses dirndl with a spray of edelweiss.

The change, of course, expresses a desire for national or regional identification.

ONLY A FEW AIRLINES have introduced the new uniforms. But most all of the major carriers have up-dated the "work clothes" so that the stewardesses look a part of the jet age instead of fashion plate vintage 1840's when wide-shouldered, three-button jackets and silk skirts were "in."

Most of the new uniforms use the shorter roomier sleeve with raglan shoulder, the boxy jacket which gives a girl more arm room, where the meat is, and the handing pillows to passengers. And several substituted the over blouse for those tuck-in numbers which pulled out of the skirt a minute a stewardess stretched to turn on a seat light.

QANTAS PUTS its stewardesses in an Australian-designed dress and packed costume. Both are in pale green worsted to match the interior of the carrier's Boeing 707 jets.

KLM Royal Dutch Airlines restyled the hostesses uniforms and also ordered a new costume to accommodate J. J. Fuller, an Amsterdam hair stylist, worked out six variations of a short cut. Forbiddens are pony tails, burns or pigtail. Long hair, said a spokesman, is hard to keep tidy and looks better in the short cut.

STEWARDESSES for at least three lines can boast a famous designer label in their apparel. Don Loper, who does wardrobes for some of Hollywood's top stars, designed new uniforms for Trans World Airlines and Pan American World Airways.

TWA's stewardesses wear a loose, boxy jacket and slim skirt charcoal brown. The hat design is a beret type, getting away from the bowler. The Loper-designed uniform for Pan American has a dressmaker jacket, collarless, with raglan shoulder, and bracelet length sleeves. The overblouse is half-belted across the back.

Units Plan Party, Hold Culture Night

The theme of the Azay Trata and Val Hyre exchange Friday at 8:30 p.m. will be "Night on the Town."

Decorations will lend a night club atmosphere to the affair. Part of the Intertermen entertainment will be provided by Val Hyre quartet. Co-chairman for the exchange are Sherrill and Benzyer and Tom Schuman.

Last held their culture night Thursday evening in the Lake View Ward Chapel.

Featured speaker for the event was Professor Richard Ellsworth of the English Department. His subject was temple marriage.

Shortage Needn't Limit Dating

by Julie Pingree

Daily Universe Society Writer

Wallet definitely on the flat side, check book nearing an overdrawn condition, face the problem — and these desperate straits which many a college man finds himself in, needn't be serious on the Brigham Young University campus.

Social life doesn't have to be neglected at BYU because of limited financial means. This is especially true considering that most girls in these parts are more interested in how much fun a fellow is to be with than in how much green stuff he can flash in one evening.

THOSE ALL IMPORTANT activities which decorates them may be, serve as fine substitutes for ready cash. They are capable of providing many evenings of entertainment which are very easy on the pocketbook.

An opera, "The Merry Wives of Windsor" is playing at the Smith Auditorium this weekend. Local bands featuring both local and nationally known talent will be presented on campus throughout the year. All of these make extra special places to go on dates, not available in many other areas.

In addition, there are student music recitals regularly held all year long.

ACTIVITY CARDS ALSO are invaluable in attending the ever-popular football, basketball, and baseball games. These games meet other Skyline Conference teams. Then, there are always other athletic events that make for an interesting evening, such as gymnastic exhibitions and wrestling meets.

Activity cards aren't the only answer though, as many fellows with real imagination have discovered. These guys can make even a study date to the Grant Library seem like something special.

WATCHING TELEVISION in Cannon or the Smith Hall is even a treat to gals who haven't been near one of the one-eyed monsters since they left home.

Bicycling is growing every day in popularity, not only as a major form of transportation but also as a great form of entertainment. This is a good way to use up excess energy that we have been accumulating at these study tables.

The Phi Tau and Di Chi exchange is going to be this Saturday. With a "Roaring Twenties" theme, the Police Lodge should be just full of "small change" come eight bell-at night. Flappers and suit suiters will be entertained by the Program Bureau, and refreshments will be served.

NIGHT ON OLYMPUS is the theme for the Viking-uni Lou exchange this Saturday night. The girls will not owe their dates and will be auctioned off at the party. One girl will gather up the Helen in a modern Greek chariot and take them to the mountain where the "gods" will be sitting. Viking scrubs will serve the food. Afterwards there'll be games and dancing with a surprise event to take place sometime in the middle of the night.

The Tau Sigma social unit will hold its fall formal Saturday. The traditional black and white event for Vikings will be at the Maple Valley Inn beginning at 8:30. Music will be provided by Jerry Hyde. All this via Bart Jacobsen, alumnus of the formal.

LAST NIGHT was ToKalon's cultural night. With the theme "A Touch of Tweed," Marilyn Ballif spoke to members and guests about latest fashions. Entertainment was provided by Tyrion Keller.

The ToKalonians and Brickers are also going back to the days of the "Roarin' Twenties" for their exchange Saturday night. There will be entertainment and refreshments and awards for the most sleek "Sheek" and the flapping slapper." Gail Slater, Brendie Dickerson and Ron Steinke chairman for the party.

Back in the days when we had to tend to the automatic washer and dryer and vacuum cleaner, we were so glad abiding the chores traditionally done by women.

This made the children see. Nowadays, with these vibrators to do the laundry (the central suction tube is an idea) at the push of a button, had they supposed kitchen to fix the daily meal, a mother is nothing but a man body who takes you in arms once in a while."

Jack's Batch

by Jack Batchelor

University Sports Writer

Many people have wondered just why our first-string quarterback Bud Belnap was not in the game at Denver. The reason is a said one, and we offer our condolences to Bud and his wife at this time.

Bud went on the trip but received a wire from home that his new-born baby was in very critical condition and that he should return home right away. That was Friday.

SATURDAY, THE TEAM RECEIVED A WIRE FROM BUD WHICH READ SOMETHING LIKE THIS: "We lost our battle at 10:20 p.m. Go out and win yours today. Signed Bud." A sad occurrence, but one which speaks well of the caliber of man Bud Belnap.

THANKS

After tomorrow's duel with Wyoming the Cougar stadium will be closed down for another season. The football wraps will be on until spring training and it is already expected that over 100 footballs will turn out. Not so for the trainer Rod Kimball. Rod has yet to help injured players over their ailments and won't put up his little black bag for quite some time because he also has to keep the basketball players in shape. For the job that you have done over the years, Rod, we say thanks. Thanks a lot. Without you we would have had more players out of action, and some of them may have even gone through life maimed. For them too, we say thanks.

* * *

BRIGHAM YOUNG and Gene Frantz, who was injured in the BYU-Montana game in the disputed play of Gary Smith received a letter of apology from Mr. Smith the other day. We realize that letters won't heal the hurt to Franz's body but we acknowledge his thoughtfulness in doing what he has done to overcome the stigma which has been added to his name.

* * *

Ever wondered who it is that spent all of that money that the athletic program eats up? His name is Floyd Taylor. Floyd runs the ticket office down in the fieldhouse and is the one who is legally known as the Athletic Business Manager.

He has been down there for eight years now and in that time has seen the fortunes and misfortunes of Cougar warfare from the box office. His services have been valuable to the university. But it is his extra little jobs that has earned him our respect. Floyd is a politician in his little world. He is the one who keeps those green seats filled up when the Cougars season rolls around, and is the one who keeps the guy who wants two on the third row happy with the seats on the 33rd row. Thanks Floyd.

* * *

AFTER TOMORROW'S game the football troops will head for the land of coco-palms and pineapples for a game against U. of Hawaii. Then the coaches' jobs will be over in so far as training of players is concerned. Then comes the harder part—recruiting players to come here next year to be on our freshman squad.

They will get a chance to see the cream of the Utah crop right here in Cougar stadium next Friday. At least, someone who doesn't go to Hawaii will. The Utah State Class A and Class B final matches will be played here.

See you all there and at the Frosh-Varsity basketball duel that night.

The Cowboys have found victory over Montana, 14-3; New Mexico, 13-3; Denver 41-2; Colorado State, 40-8; Air Force, 15-0; Utah, 17-7, and Texas Tech, 10-7.

ARIZONA scored an eleventh hour TD in a 21-19 upset and Utah had four points to spare in the 17-13 victory to hand the Cowboys their only loss of the season.

The Cowboys, plagued by inexperience and injury, have a 3-8 record for the season. Wins have been over Cal Poly, 34-14; Montana, 7-8, and Denver, 19-6.

THE COUGARS have fallen to San Jose State, 21-8; Colorado State, 8-7; Utah, 17-0; Arizona State, 21-10; Utah State, 34-0, and New Mexico, 27-13.

Although the Cougars have nothing to show in the game this weekend, Wyoming is still in the race. An upset could push the Cougars as high as fifth place in final league standings and, at the same time, Wyoming would be out of a first-place tie with Utah State.

THE WYOMING squad has been a tough one this season as they defend their Skyline championship. The Cowboys have given up fewer than 85 yards per game on the ground and can boast little more than 60 yards per game given up through the air.

Unlike the shallow ranks of the Cougars, Wyoming is reputed to have the three best backfield units in the conference.

Since the Cowboys are neither noted for their offense nor defense they expect a typically solid team effort from the visitors that will be hard to beat. Even with the odds the way they shape up, the Cats are not willing to concede anything, however.

The resurgent BYU eleven went to the air last week to claim a 19-6 victory over Denver, to show many skeptical fans that the Cougars could still win. Morale is running high this week as the squad prepares to take on the Cowboys, a fact that may encourage Pokes a great deal of trouble.

SINCE THE Wyoming series began in 1922, Wyoming has won 14, lost 13 and there have been 2 ties. The biggest BYU win came in 1929, 40-0, while Wyoming's came in 1950, 48-0. Last year the Cowboys took the Cats 21-8. For an upset, the Cougars could pose a problem for the Pokes. Game time is Saturday at 3:30.

1. Make rich suds of good hand soap with a small sponge—Apply liberally to loosen dirt.
2. Rinse off with damp (not a wet cloth) and after drying, polish with a good neutral polish desired.
